Project Management

Your best career move may be to earn a PMP certification by taking PRISM's PMP certification preparation course. The PMP certification is required for many jobs in a variety of private and governmental sectors.

"PMI's PMP credential is considered by many as the "gold standard" of global project management certification.

"This credential, which is ISO 9001: 2000 compliant, demonstrates that the holder as one who has demonstrated the knowledge, experience and leadership skills required to competently practice project management" (www.pmi.org).

Hundreds of participants have successfully completed PRISM's 35-hour PMP certification preparation course. Bill regularly teaches PMP certification preparation courses in Bellingham. He has taught PMP prep courses on-site at CH2M Hill, The Boeing Company, Fluke Precision Tools. These newly revised PMP courses are consistent with PMI's 2016 PMP examination revisions.

Quality Management

"Quality is critical to products, services, business, and industry. Learn quality concepts, methodologies, best practices, tools, and techniques of total quality management, Six Sigma, and Lean in your work. Learn problem-solving and decision-making skills important to your success on the job" (www.asq.org).

Quality management will make a difference for your company and for your bottom-line. You will learn time-tested principles and methods to improve the work you do. Dr. Warner specializes in Six Sigma and Lean training.

PRISM on-site, customized Six Sigma training is available at a reasonable price for individuals and for corporations such as small to large scale businesses; technology businesses, construction companies, and manufacturing companies.
